Project Summary

The School of History and Heritage at the University of Lincoln, UK, seeks to recruit a PhD student in History.

Applicants should have research interests in one of the following areas: Medieval history (particularly editions or close textual analysis); modern British history (post-1945); women's and gender history.

One fully-funded PhD studentship is available for start in September/October 2015. This will cover UK/EU fees and provide an annual stipend set at RCUK levels (£14,057 for 2015/16). The duration of the studentship is three years full-time.

Supervisor

Professor Krista Cowman (modern history); Dr Philippa Hoskin (medieval history).

Informal Enquiries

For further information on this project please contact Lynn Johnson via email: collegeofartsPGR@lincoln.ac.uk

Eligibility

All Candidates must satisfy the University’s minimum doctoral entry criteria for studentships of an honours degree at Upper Second Class (2:1) or an appropriate Master’s degree or equivalent. A minimum IELTS (Academic) score of 7 (or equivalent) is essential for candidates for whom English is not their first language. Funded studentships are open to both UK/EU students unless otherwise specified.

How to Apply

Letters of interest can be submitted to Lynn Johnson via email: collegeofartsPGR@lincoln.ac.uk

Applicants should include a short summary of their research career to date and a brief proposal outlining the main themes they would wish to pursue in their doctoral thesis. Project Reference and Project Title should be quoted on all correspondence.

Deadline for expressions of interest is close of day on 13th March 2015. Candidates shortlisted for interview will be notified on Friday 20th March with interviews during the week commencing 6th April.
